It's the classic shoujo with love triangle, humor and fan service. I had fun reading this and I think it's something the readers should only take lightly.

The plot is very fast paced, but I got annoyed with the protagonist, Rinne. Her actions are not easy to justify and she annoyed me on the latter part of the volume when it came time to choosing whether to let Keiju inhabit Masaharu's body. It shouldn't even be a choice to begin with. It's wrong in so many levels and it bothers me why Rinne is so relieved at the thought that Masaharu would stop dressing up like a yankee. I mean, what does she care? It's his body and he can do whatever the hell he wants with it, and most especially because she doesn't really have a valid reason for wanting it other than she wants Masaharu to act like Keiju when he was still in Masaharu's body whom she got so smitten by. Talk about selfish!

--- Heaven !! 1-3 ---

Plot: Ok dengan berbagai macam bumbu komedi.

Gambar: Ok.

Penokohan: Ok.

Baca sinopsisnya langsung ya^^.

Jadi, sebenarnya saya hanya mau memberikan dua bintang untuk judul ini. Tentu saja saya bukan karena tokohnya tidak berakhir seperti ekspektasiku (haha).

Tapi setelah saya bersemedi mempertimbangkan, judul ini tidak cocok untuk dua bintang. Humornya oke, plotnya tidak repetitif dan meski tidak sesuai harapan awal saya, saya lumayan menikmatinya sampai akhir. Cuma saja yah... endingnya klasik komik shoujo. Meski rada tidak masuk akal (seperti sebagaimana shoujo biasanya), saya toh suka yang happy ending ^^.

Graaaaatt!! Funny but still romantic. The characters are gorg, like seriously, I had a lot of nose bleed moments reading the volume. Full review to come.

I love this author, but this series is even better than expected. Possibly because it involves the supernatural. A great first book. The art is great too. All the bishounen are deliciously bishounen.

Heaven!! is about a girl named Rinne Ito who can send ghosts to heaven by hitting them with her paper fan. When the school's rebel, Massaharu Uzaki, saves her from being hit by a truck, he ends up in a coma. And then a god named Keiju, who's a total player, takes over his body, and Uzaki's spirit ends up in a pink stuffed monkey.

This manga was hilarious, and really romantic! There's lots of romantic - and sexual - tension between the characters, and I just found it so funny. Uzaki is really whacky, so putting that personality in a pink monkey made it all the more funny. And I find Keiju's obnoxiousness great. These are characters I definitely want to read more about in the next two volumes.

Although there isn't anything particularly original about this story so far, it was still a fairly fun read. Look for the usual suspects: spazzy female lead, arrogant male friend, supernatural guy who takes a special interest in the leading lady, and panty references. I'd recommend giving this one a read if you happen to have easy access to it, but it's not one that I plan to go out of my way to continue reading.

Heaven is about a girl named Rinne who can see and exorcise ghosts, removing them from possessing others and helping them pass on. When Rinne almost becomes a ghost herself, school punk Uzaki saves her just in time. With his spirit knocked out of his body, a god decides to take over Uzaki's physical form! Since a god is different than a spirit, smarter, Rinne has more trouble exercising him from Uzaki's body. Meanwhile, Uzaki's spirit is thrust into a stuffed pink monkey until Rinne is able to get him back into his own body. And of course, Rinne begins falling for...someone?! Is it the god within Uzaki's body, or is she actually finding attachment to Uzaki himself? And will she ever be done exercising spirits from where they don't belong?

Overall, a cute story, but seems very cliché. An imminent love triangle potentially presents itself, and the generic high school setting and heroine with medium powers is a bit overdone among the Japanese genres. If you like the whole high school romance, but with a ghostly twist, there are numerous other volumes that have a better story (some only slightly so and some much more), although occasionally dealing with demons rather than ghosts/spirits. cough cough Yu Yu Hakusho is great. Gaba Kawa is similar, with demons rather than ghosts.

I love this series it is so funny and cute. It is about a Rinnie who is a medium and there is this spirit Keiju that has taken over Masaharu body, and poor Masaharu spirit is put into a stuff monkey. Masaharu before Keiju took over was the school bully and everyone didn't like him. But when Keiju took over his body he has a different personality and everyone loves him. In this book Keiju and Rinnie both end up being sick and the poor monkey has to take care of them. Keiju and Rinnie start to have feelings for each other and Masaharu tries to keep either of them from admitting anything. This book is so much fun it makes me laugh the monkey and the way he acts and is always yelling at Keiju not to do things while in his body. Rinnie for the way she is around Keiju in this one. And Keiju himself is funny.
